

THE REFORMATION

OBSERVING 500 YEARS

WHAT DID THE 95 THESIS SAY?

Luther was taught that the Pope, as the spiritual heir of Peter, held the power to retain or forgive sins. This is called the Office of the Keys. People could help turn the keys by buying a simple piece of paper from the Pope, called an indulgence. Luther was concerned that indulgences were being marketed as an easy way to get right with God -- too easy. The 95 Theses brought attention to a critical issue: the authority of the Pope and his role in the Office of the Keys. Luther would soon find out that the 95 Theses toppled one domino -- and a whole series of dominoes were about to follow.
