

THE REFORMATION

OBSERVING 500 YEARS

Week 2:

Changes in the Church:

The Education & Role of a Preacher

In the summer of 1530, while Luther's colleagues were working on the Augsburg Confession, Luther was focused on the future. He knew his personal authority wouldn't last forever. And he wanted to try to ensure the evangelical message taught in Wittenberg would endure. The chief element in his plans was the first generation of pastors coming out of Wittenberg classrooms. Luther was interested in ensuring that qualified and faithful pastors would be called to serve the church.

So what was it Luther wanted his pastors to know? To find out, go to www.lutherhouseofstudy.org.

LUTHER HOUSE OF STUDY
LUTHERHOUSEOFSTUDY.ORG

THE REFORMATION

OBSERVING 500 YEARS

Week 2:

Changes in the Church:

The Education & Role of a Preacher

In the summer of 1530, while Luther's colleagues were working on the Augsburg Confession, Luther was focused on the future. He knew his personal authority wouldn't last forever. And he wanted to try to ensure the evangelical message taught in Wittenberg would endure. The chief element in his plans was the first generation of pastors coming out of Wittenberg classrooms. Luther was interested in ensuring that qualified and faithful pastors would be called to serve the church.

So what was it Luther wanted his pastors to know? To find out, go to www.lutherhouseofstudy.org.

LUTHER HOUSE OF STUDY
LUTHERHOUSEOFSTUDY.ORG