OBSERVING 500 YEARS

Week 4: What Should The Church Do?

A common question that arises out of those who hear Lutherans talk about salvation is, “If we are justified by faith alone, then why do anything? Aren’t we supposed to do things like feed the hungry, visit prisoners, care for the sick?” Martin Luther understood that Christians can never sit idle. The heart of what we are to do as Christians is found in the Great Commission.
