

THE REFORMATION

OBSERVING 500 YEARS

Week 2: The Diet of Worms

In Luther's time, religion and politics were tightly linked. They were so closely linked, in fact, that your religious views could get you killed. It's hard for some of us to imagine now, but this was the situation Luther found himself in not too long after he posted the 95 Theses. And so it was that in early 1521, Luther was on trial in front of the Roman Emperor in a town called Worms. He was asked to defend what he had been saying -- and take it back -- or risk death.

To find out what Luther did and how he answered the Emperor's questions, watch the video at lutherhouseofstudy.org.

THE REFORMATION

OBSERVING 500 YEARS

Week 2: The Diet of Worms

In Luther's time, religion and politics were tightly linked. They were so closely linked, in fact, that your religious views could get you killed. It's hard for some of us to imagine now, but this was the situation Luther found himself in not too long after he posted the 95 Theses. And so it was that in early 1521, Luther was on trial in front of the Roman Emperor in a town called Worms. He was asked to defend what he had been saying -- and take it back -- or risk death.

To find out what Luther did and how he answered the Emperor's questions, watch the video at lutherhouseofstudy.org.

