

THE REFORMATION

OBSERVING 500 YEARS

Week 2:

Whether Soldiers, Too, Can Be Saved

Luther took the opportunity to address the life and death concerns that routinely confront soldiers to explain how it is Christians in all walks of life are held firm in Christ's promises. Everyone faces decisions that are matters of life and death; although for those in the vocation of soldier these issues are more magnified.

So how did Luther address the consciences of those who are called by their neighbors to break the Fifth Commandment? To find out, go to www.lutherhouseofstudy.org.
